Our Story

From our humble beginnings in Melbourne, Australia back in 2000 to becoming an internationally recognised company today, the journey of Jax Wax Australia has been nothing short of remarkable!

Tina and Geoff Copland embarked on their Jax Wax journey back in October 2000, starting out as a modest home business nestled in the outer Melbourne suburb of Hallam. Fast forward to today, and Jax Wax has blossomed into a global enterprise, exporting their exceptional range across Australia, Asia, Europe, New Zealand, and the USA.

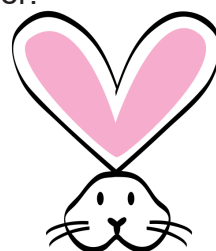

At Jax Wax, we take immense pride in crafting all our products right here in Australia, using only the finest ingredients. Not only are our creations never tested on animals, but they're also proudly vegan-friendly. Take, for instance, our signature bottle sealing wax, meticulously formulated for effortless application. Delivered in a convenient beaded form, it melts at a gentle temperature, ensuring safety without compromising on performance.

When applied with care, our wax yields a tight seal with a delightful soft sheen. For those seeking an extra touch of gloss, a quick dip into cold water does the trick beautifully. Bid farewell to the frustration of chipping wax—our formula peels away effortlessly, leaving your bottles pristine and your sealing experience hassle-free.

Packaged in cartons containing 12kg of bead-packed goodness, our sealing wax simplifies the melting process, sparing you the need to fuss with cutting blocks into smaller pieces. With over 16 vibrant colors to choose from, including both solid and metallic shades ranging from delicate yellows to bold blacks, there's a hue to suit every preference.

But wait, there's more! Fancy a custom color to match your brand or event theme? Fear not, for we're here to make your vision a reality. With a minimum order of 100kg, we're ready to bring your unique shade to life. Just keep in mind, crafting perfection takes time. Allow us at least 4 weeks for color matching and sampling, though we recommend a longer lead time of 5-6 months for optimal product stability. For more information, set up costs or anything else you need, please email or give us a call.

So whether you're sealing bottles for business or pleasure, Jax Wax is your partner in perfection. Let's seal the deal together!

BEADED BOTTLE SEALING WAX INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE

IMPORTANT SAFETY WARNING:

Please ensure you wear safety glasses at all times when handling hot wax. Hot wax can cause serious burns if any of it splashes onto your face. Your safety is paramount. DO NOT USE DIRECTLY ON SKIN.

MELTING PROCEDURE

- Our waxes are suitable for both 'hand' or 'machine' dipping. Put a small amount of Beaded Bottle Sealing Wax into a melting pot. For smaller quantities, a "crock pot" is an ideal choice, anything that will maintain a consistent dipping temperature. Refer to manufacturer's guideline on how to use the machine, we recommend a working temperature of 85°C to get the best results from our product.
- Heat the wax gently until it begins to melt. Once there's a layer of liquid wax covering the bottom of the pot, add more wax in stages until you have enough for dipping bottles.
- Before dipping, use a thermometer to check the temperature. An ideal range is between 80°C to 88°C, depending on the thickness required.
- For metallic colors, occasionally stir the wax to prevent any separation of metallic pigments.

DIPPING PROCEDURE

- Ensure that bottles to be dipped are corked or capped tightly. Also, make sure there is no liquid residue around the neck of the bottle.
- Lower the bottle vertically into the wax as far as necessary. The wax should reach far enough down the neck of the bottle to provide an adequate seal.
- Be mindful not to leave the bottle in the wax for too long. Remove the bottle at a slight angle to allow excess wax to drip back into the pot. Continuously rotate the bottle while lifting it out of the wax. Repeat this process until the wax stops dripping.
- You can let the waxed bottle cool as is, which will result in a satin finish. If you prefer a glossier finish, immediately dip the waxed bottle into cold water. Remember to change the water as it warms up for best results. Alternatively, you can let it cool in front of a fan.

TROUBLESHOOTING

1. Difficulty Peeling Wax Off Bottle:

- Possible Cause: Wax coating temperature is too hot.
- Solution: Ensure that the wax temperature is lowered to the appropriate range for easier peeling.

2. Faded Color:

- Possible Cause: Wax has been overheated.
- Solution: Monitor the wax temperature carefully to prevent overheating, this fades out the color.

3. Bubble Occurs at Cap or Cork Seal:

- Possible Cause: Air trapped in the cork or cap ridge expands due to the heat of the wax.
- Solution: To minimize this issue, hold the bottle in the wax until bubbling ceases. Some corks may be very porous, requiring a second coat for a satisfactory result. Apply the first coat when cool, and quickly dip for the second coat.

REMOVAL INSTRUCTIONS:

To remove wax from dipped bottles, follow these steps:

1. Make a diagonal cut in the wax from the bottom of the seal to the top edge.
2. Lift the bottom edge of the wax and begin peeling it away using your thumb.
3. In most cases, the wax should come off in one piece, leaving the bottle cleanly.
